

Declaration of Reasonable Diligence to Ascertain the Correct Address of the Judgment Debtor pursuant to CCP 684.130

Court:

Case #:

Case Name:

Judgment Creditor:

Judgement Debtor:

I am the Judgment Creditor in the above referenced case for personal debt as defined in California Code of Civil Procedure § 683.110. Within the last 12 months, I used reasonable diligence to verify the Judgment Debtor’s address is correct to the best of my knowledge in accordance with Code of Civil Procedure § 684.130. I understand that I am required to file a copy of this declaration with the court no later than 5 business days after delivering it to the Levying Officer.

I verified the Judgment Debtor’s address through the following method(s):

- Receipt of correspondence from the Judgment Debtor, dated no more than 12 months before the execution of this declaration, that includes a return address or other comparable verification of the Judgment Debtor’s address.
- Transmittal of a letter by certified mail, or other method of transmission through the United States Postal Service providing a return receipt, to the Judgment Debtor’s address, with a return receipt that is dated no more than 12 months before execution of this declaration and is signed by the Judgment Debtor.
- Verification of the Judgment Debtor’s current address by a commercial address verification service, including skip-tracing, or, if reasonably available, a public record database, followed by dispatch of a letter, by first-class mail to the verified address, that was not returned to sender.
- Other (please describe dates and methods of verification):

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct:
